Focus: Medical care from your primary care provider

A primary care provider, often known as a PCP, is the person who knows your health best. Your PCP might be a doctor, nurse practitioner or physician's assistant. If needed, your PCP can refer you to a specialist for cancer, pregnancy, physical therapy and much more. These services are all covered by Columbia Pacific CCO.

Start with your PCP for all of your health care needs.

Build a relationship with your PCP

As a Columbia Pacific CCO member, you are automatically assigned to a PCP, and you'll find their name and number on your Member ID card. But it's also important for your PCP to get to know you. As soon as you receive your Member ID card, make an appointment with your assigned PCP — for a regular check-up, even if you're not sick.

Here's what a strong relationship with your PCP looks like:

See your PCP for regular checkups and health screenings.

Get care for minor health issues like cold, flu, fever, chronic pain, etc.

They can help prevent serious problems by staying on top of your health, and find issues when they arise.

Your PCP sees you often, so they know you best! They can:

- Diagnose you better because they understand your health.
- Review your medications to make sure they're up to date.
- Decide if you need to see specialists.
- Advise you about how to feel better.
- Make sure you get what you need to stay healthy.

PCP, urgent care or emergency room?

Go to your PCP for...

- ▶ Checkups.
- ▶ Tests and health screening.
- ▶ Mild illness (cold, flu, constipation, allergic reactions, sprains, etc.).
- ▶ After-hours care: they may have someone on call or can make an appointment soon.

Go to urgent care if...

- ▶ You need immediate care and your PCP tells you to go to urgent care or can't see you.
- ▶ You aren't assigned to a PCP.

Go to the ER for...

Life-threatening symptoms, like these:

- ▶ Chest pain
- ▶ Hard time breathing
- ▶ Head trauma
- ▶ Mental distress

Your health benefits are provided by Columbia Pacific CCO, your Medicaid health plan. Learn more about us here.

When people talk about Medicaid in Oregon, you may hear them say a lot of different names or letters. That's because there are many organizations involved in making sure you get the care you deserve. How can you make sense of it all?

It helps to think of Medicaid in Oregon like a pyramid

Oregon Health Authority (OHA) runs the Medicaid program for the entire state of Oregon, which is called the Oregon Health Plan (OHP).

Columbia Pacific CCO is what's called a coordinated care organization (CCO). Oregon's CCOs exist to provide health insurance and much more. We look at the broad picture of your health and help with other services you wouldn't expect from a health care company. We also work with community partners to give you access to better health.

Your primary care provider (PCP) might be a doctor, a nurse practitioner, a physician's assistant or a naturopath. They coordinate your care with Columbia Pacific CCO and other medical team members like dentists, mental health providers, pharmacists and others.
